UTERMEHLE WILL CONTEST RESUMED

Contestant Tells of His Grandfather's Death.

ALLEGES UNDUE INFLUENCE

Trial Involves Large Property Interests ed to a Rigid Cross-Examination-Hearing Continued Today.

The hearing in the centest over the will of the late Mr. George W. Utermehle, involving large property interests in this city, was resumed yesterday morning be fore Justice Barnard and a jury in the Probate Court. The contestant, Mr. Charles H. Utermehle, again resumed the stand and concluded his direct examination by giving a graphic and dramatic description of the death of his grandfather, which occurred in 1889. Mr. Utermeble stated that all the members of the family were called to the bedside about two hours before the death, and that his daughter, Mrs. Taylor, was engaged most of the time in watching the approach of with or otherwise disposed of and not rethe end. The members in attendance were informed by her as to the way in which death was approaching. Dr. Taylor, the witness said, stood by the bedside, and when the end came, finally, closed his watch, with the exclamation, "He is

Widow Sobbed.

Mr. Utermehle stated that save for sobs noticeable on the part of the widow there were no other visible manifestations of feeling at the death, The witness then denied all knowledge of any other will than the one in controversy having been made by his grandfather, and was then turned over to counsel for the caveatees for cross-examination.

Attorney Worthington at once began to take Mr. Utermeble over the entire field of his direct examination, and examined him particularly in regard to the meaning of different declarations previously made by him.

stances as to how he became aware for the first time, in 1899, and the early part of 1960, of what he claimed was the undue influence practiced upon his grandfather, and of his mental incapacity at the time it is said he made the will.

He admitted and identified the receipt of certain checks shown him, which had been paid to him by his grandmother in connection with taking up the mortgage upon his property, which, he said, was agreed to at the time he had the con-versation with Mrs. Norment, Mrs. Taylor, and his grandmother, in which they had covering upon the small legacy which remarked upon the small legacy which had been left to him, and promised him that they would see that his share was equalized out of what the grandmother

Mr. Utermehle was made to detail his skull was fractured conversation, and was asked specifically regarding his movements after his grandmother's death. He stated he spent the most of his time in Frederick, but that during the year of 1892, he attended the World's Fair, and also made a trip to

Signed Legal Papers.

A paper was produced by Attorney Worthington which the witness said he signed when he was very ill in Frederick, giving a local real estate dealer-Mr. Charles Handy-power of attorney to receive certain payments in connection with his grandmother's estate.

The contestant was then asked as to what he had intended in writing the letter of May 19, in which he offered to pay back to his aunts what he had received under the will. He stated that he had at that time made arrangements to obtain the property which he had received under the will, and also to acquire the money neces-sary to make the settlement upon the exact lines indicated in the letter, and that he did not mean morely by the letter he was willing that his distributive share should be charged with the amount that he had taken, but emphatically declared that he was ready to deliver the property and the small amount of money which he had received in connection with the legacy and the $750 note.

Case Continued Until Today.

At this point Attorney Worthington suggested that further cross-examination be suspended until today, when, it is to prove the mental condition of Mr. Uter-mehle at the time he made the will, and to substantiate the claims of the contestant regarding the charge of undue influ-

TO RESTORE STOLEN GOODS.

Judge Kimball Recommends Amendment to District Code.

Judge I. G. Kimball, of the Police Court, as written to the District Commissioners. proposing an amendment to section 827 of the code to provide for restitution in petit larceny cases, and the matter has been referred to Mr. A. P. Duvall, the in This City-Mr. Utermehle Subject- City Solicitor, for his views. Judge Kimhall says:

Before the passage of the code the law authorized the court in petit larceny cases to require restitution. This provision has been omitted from the code, and this omission often works great injustice. It frequently hapens that the officers scoare only a part of the money or other prop-erty clearly proven to have been taken by the prisoner, and if the court had power to order restitution of the value of the property so taken, the owner who, in most cases, is in need, would be repaid the money or property so lost. The require-ment for restitution should be left to the sound discretion of the court.

"I therefore recommend that section 827 of the code be amended by adding thereto the words: 'And in all convictions for larceny, either grand or petit, the trial justice in his sound discretion may order restitution to be made of the value of the money or property shown to have been stolen by the defendant, and made way
